SHOPPING & DINING

Cambria

Visit Cambria for a peek into the region's past. In early summer, join our community to watch Norfolk & Western's 611 steam locomotive as it travels through Christiansburg. You'll also find gift shops, antiques, artisans and Amelia's Pizzeria.

Downtown

Downtown is the place to go for the annual Christmas Parade, Fourth of July Celebration and other events like the Food Truck Rodeo. From May-October, find fresh produce at the Farmers' Market on Hickok Street.

Year-round, you can find charming eateries and local businesses.

Roanoke Street Corridor

Here, the variety of dining options may surprise you. From home-style cooking, Cajun flavor, southern barbecue and more, you won't leave hungry. Stay in town for live music or make it a "drive-in" night and have dinner at Dude's Drive-In before catching a movie at Starlite Drive-In, one of only a few remaining drive-in movie theaters in Virginia.

Uptown

There's a reason Christiansburg is considered the retail hub of the New River Valley. Travel along North Franklin Street and you'll find national brands to fit all of your needs. Take the family for a game of bowling or make it a date night with dinner and a movie.

ABOUT

The Town of Christiansburg is tucked between the slopes of the Blue Ridge Mountains and the winding path of the New River in southwest Virginia. With our tight-knit community; numerous recreational, commercial and cultural destinations; and proximity to higher education institutions, it's no wonder we are known as "the place to be."

Originally a concentration of taverns and rest stops along the Great Wilderness Road (now US Route 11), the 1.1-square-mile town was established in 1792 and later incorporated in 1833. Famous residents and visitors include Davy Crockett, Daniel Boone and Booker T. Washington.

Christiansburg is now 14 square-miles and is the fourth largest town in Virginia with 21,041 residents (2010 census). The Town serves as Montgomery County's seat and retail hub. With Virginia Tech, Radford University, New River Community College, two major hospitals and the I-81 corridor nearby, we're a diverse, collegiate, commercial and professional community with a small-town vibe. From local restaurants and mom-and-pop antique shops to recreation opportunities, there's something for everyone here.
